Manifold involves three artists: Bert Schodts, Youri Loedts and Jan Vervloet. They joined forces two years ago with the intention to produce high quality NU-metal music. Bert and Youri have been making metal music for over ten years and Jan Vervloet is a well-known international dance producer and dj.

Manifold is a commercial rock band. We want to reach a large audience. Why make music if no one will listen to it? Sure, we can produce more original songs, but that would make them too complicated and more difficult to dance to. We just want people to have fun. Our songs fit the music scene of today and therefore have the potential to sell very well.

Manifold is meant to be the NU-metal version of a dance act. We want people to come to our shows because they know they will be entertained with an impressive show and great music. We don't look like a typical NU-metal band because we aren't, we intend to take on a neutral image that appeals to everyone.

One of the demo songs, an instrumental and adapted version of 2Wicked, is already being used in a television commercial for The Official Dutch PlayStation 2 Magazine (Benelux). The commercial is included in the media section of the website. It has been aired on the following popular music channels: JIMtv (Belgium) and TMF (The Netherlands). We are talking about weekends, during prime time, and further transmissions every two hours! Reactions have been very positive so far but we are still looking for the perfect partner to make our band Manifold the next big thing, because we know it can be!

Manifold is a NU-metal project by Limpid Studios.

What is Limpid Studios?

Limpid Studios is a creative assembly of four guys, each with their own unique strengths. But they have a lot in common as well: they all love their work and always strive for perfection in whatever they do. They are soul mates. They trust each other blindly and combine their efforts to make music, create multimedia and build web applications. Whatever project comes their way, they will approach it as a challenge and give it their absolute best!
